

SMS

I've a message. The phone insists.
You're scrawled momentarily
on inquisitive air, peculiarly here a caress through a scratch of text. As if there's no-one in the supermarket
I take your message to my mouth - skin of glass, cold electricity.

Noel Williams